Brief Report

On August 21, 2018, the Anti-Ragging Cell and Internal Complaint Committee of KRE Society's R.V. Bidap Law College in Bidar organized an awareness program focused on "Anti-Ragging" regulations, featuring Prakash Bhure as the speaker.

The event commenced with the dignitaries participating in a plant-watering ceremony, symbolizing growth and the nurturing of a safe environment for all students. Prakash Bhure opened the discussion by addressing various laws and Acts related to anti-sexual harassment, highlighting the legal framework and the serious implications surrounding such issues. He then traced the origins of ragging, explaining the relevant sections of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) and underscoring the importance of awareness and prevention.

Prakash Bhure urged students to report any incidents of ragging or sexual harassment to the authorities without hesitation, stressing the necessity of collective action to combat these issues. In his concluding remarks, he emphasized the need for ongoing initiatives and suggested exploring additional topics such as mental health support systems, peer counselling, and community building to effectively tackle these challenges.
