1. Legal Awareness Against Domestic Violence

1. Concept note/Proposal of the program

A concept note for legal awareness on domestic violence should aim to educate individuals about their rights and legal remedies available under the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005, and related provisions in the Indian Penal Code. This includes awareness of different forms of violence, available legal mechanisms, and how to seek help.

The human rights, which are inevitable to all human beings living in our country and people internationally, are such set of rights which are above all state, constitutional machineries, industries etc. and are basic to every human being irrelevant of any factor of gender, race, caste etc. If seen from a women's perspective these rights simply mean that they enjoy complete freedom which is at par with the men of their society i.e. as all men have a right to be protected against all kinds of violence or abuse so are women of the society, who are to be equally protected and ensure their say in the Legal system of our country.

4. Report of the event

The audience were inquisitive and were interested to listen about information given to them and were appreciating the efforts done by the volunteer to carry the drive. They were also in consonance with promotion of such drives in other areas as well. They found the list of organisations and its details very informative and overall their response was positive and honest. The event was successful. All students and the neighbors were came to know about the awareness against domestic violence. They came to know about the NLSA, and DLSA and their functions and how it will be helpful.

5. Impact summary

Domestic violence is a violation of fundamental human rights, undermining the dignity and safety of individuals. And addressing this issue requires collective efforts. Including the legal reforms and social awareness and victim empowerment.
